

Dr. Baiocchi is a health care statistician, specializing in causal inference and observational studies. Areas of interest include study design, development of new statistical methodologies (particularly matching-based estimation and instrumental variable design). Applied areas include behavior-based interventions to reduce rates of violence.